SHOOTING ACCIDENTS FIND TWO VICTIMS OVER WEEK END

One Man Loses Arm as Result: Second Escapes
Serious Injury.

Frank Carhon, proprietor of the Old Farm Inn on the Salem road north of town, was accidentally shot at Camp Lake Saturday morning. He was hunting with an employee and the gun in the hands of the other man discharged accidentally. The shot glanced off the side of the head, and became imbedded in the scalp. The fact that the shot came from the back saved the eyesight of the victim.

Ex-Marine Loses Arm

A second accident occurred Sunday when a salesman for the Krieger company at Woodcrest, a former Marine officer accidentally shot himself in the arm. The arteries and nerves in the arm were shot away and the man was brought to the office of Dr. Warriner in precarious condition. Dr. Warriner administered first aid, stopping the flow of blood and the man was taken to the Great Lakes hospital. Later it was reported that it had been necessary to remove the arm.

Youth Taken for Theft of Webb Car Is Given Suspended Sentence

Richard Riley, 18, of Chicago, was given a suspended sentence of from one to three years and paroled to Jack Dalstrom in circuit court last week after pleading guilty to the theft of auto accessories from a car belonging to Chase Webb of Antioch.

Riley had an accomplice in the theft who is reputed to have been a hardened criminal with a police and penitentiary record and who escaped punishment by the expedient of jumping bail.

The parole was given by Judge Edwards pending investigation of the record of Riley. It is found that he has no previous police record and the parole will be allowed to stand.

The two men stole the Webb car on Labor Day from the Channel Lake Dance pavilion, where its driver, Emmett Webb had parked it. They drove the machine north of town and stripped it of all removable parts and accessories. These they placed in the back of their car and covered with a robe.

Coming through town two hours later they ran amuck of Traffic Cop Frank Valenta who stopped the pair for reckless driving and, upon investigation, discovered the stolen parts in the back of the car. Both were lodged in jail here and after a preliminary hearing were taken to Waukegan to await trial. The older man was able to secure a bond and was released but Riley has been under arrest since the offence was committed.

Season on Rabbits, Pheasants and Prairie Chickens Opens Today

The season for the hunting of rabbits, pheasants and prairie chickens opens today. Prairie chickens and pheasants may be hunted for 5 days only, while the rabbits may be taken from today until January 31. Cock pheasants only may be hunted and on these the bag limit is two. Three prairie chickens and fifteen rabbits are allowed to each hunter.

Lake Region Joins In Plea for Flood Control

Mayor William Hale Thompson, accompanied by a large delegation from Cook county as well as representatives from Lake and other counties, has travelled to Washington this week to place the matter of flood control in the Mississippi valley before the flood control committee of the house of Representatives Tuesday and Wednesday.

Now it is up to Mayor Frett of McHenry to gain the ear of Calvin Coolidge as he claims to have done with Len Small and appraise him of the fact that in his opinion, the McHenry dam is all that is needed in the Fox river and this region's part will be done.

Frett, it is said, considers himself an authority on the subject of dams so far at least as McHenry is concerned.

ANTIOCH HIGH WINS LAST HOME GAME

Game With Libertyville
Tomorrow Decides
Year's Standing.

Leyden Township High School of Franklin Park came to Antioch last Saturday and gave the local high school team a good battle although they were defeated 25 to 6. The local team received most of the breaks of the game and this resulted in a rather one sided score.

Both teams were able to make their downs, Antioch by straight football and Leyden by forward passes but Leyden could not get within scoring distance while the local boys went over for four touchdowns. Each of the boys carried the ball over, Spieker, Wertz, Michell and Monnier.

Antioch used several second team men in this game due to the regulars being out with injuries and not taking any chances on being in poor condition for Libertyville next Friday.

Antioch can go into a three way tie for first place by winning at Libertyville Friday and the boys are determined to do this.

The standing of the three leading teams is as follows:

	won	lost
Libertyville	4	0
Warren	4	1
Antioch	3	1

Libertyville is sure of first place, or a tie for first, while the local boys will have to fight and fight hard to win a tie for first place and this fact may have something to do with Friday's battle.

Local Hunters Bag Big Catch of Ducks

L. J. Latz, Bernie Fields and Martin Zimmerman returned Tuesday from a three day's hunting trip at Brownlag, Ill. The hunters returned with their full allowance of mallard ducks.

CITY BRIEFS

The Antioch Lumber and Coal company is constructing a new warehouse on the siding between their office building and their present warehouse. The building will be a two story structure 24 feet wide by 60 long.

A new coat of tar is being placed on the roof of the building occupied by the Reeves Drug store.

Mrs. Clarissa Clark of Lake street has been confined to her bed because of illness for the past two weeks but is now reported as improving.

WADSWORTH AND GURNEE SCHOOLS RANK SUPERIOR

Two schools in Lake County achieved ranking as superior schools last week when Supt. of Public Instruction Francis G. Blair dedicated the Wadsworth and Gurnee schools. This is the highest ranking an Illinois school can attain. There are five other such schools in the county, Hawthorn, West Ridge, Wilson, Bonle Brook and Oak Grove. In the entire state there are only 35, which gives Lake county 20 per cent of these high honors.

County Superintendent T. Arthur Simpson accompanied Supt. Blair and was also a speaker on the program at each school.

Dr. Morrell Finds Himself Owner of Two-Flat Building

Dr. F. S. Morrell, Antioch dentist and Waukegan garage owner, recently had an experience which on the face of it, appeared to the gentleman to be most unusual.

An obliging Waukegan contractor by the name of Sieger made excavations and constructed one story of a two story flat building for the doctor. At least that is the way it appeared to him. Last Monday morning a friend called up Dr. Morrell to comment on the fact that the doctor was building on his lot at 1425 Monroe street. As this was the first that Morrell had heard of it he went around to the lot and looked the building over, and thence to the building commissioner to find out the details. There he learned that a gentleman by the name of Bowers had taken out the building permit and a contractor by the name of Sieger had done the building.

Dr. Morrell had had dealings with the contractor before. Some little time before the gentleman had agreed to buy the land and paid a small sum for an option. Later he stated that he was not going to pay for the land. This however had not stopped his building plans and in talking the matter over with Dr. Morrell yesterday he stated that he had planned to construct the building without the purchase of the lot and buy the lot after he had sold the building. Dr. Morrell states that he will not assume responsibility for the building and has so notified firms that supply building materials.

Maurice Radtke returned on last Thursday from a hunting trip in southern Illinois.

Mrs. Mary Voelz of Lake Geneva came last Wednesday to visit at the home of her brother, H. A. Radtke and will remain for a couple of weeks.

BUSINESS CLUB MEETING CALLED FOR NEXT MONDAY

The Antioch Business club are to hold their next dinner at the Blue Willow Inn next Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. This is the first meeting of the organization since the meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. camp at Hastings Lake last summer and there will be many things that have arisen during the recess which the organization will need to consider at the coming meeting.

Libertyville-Antioch Game To Be Shown On The Silver Screen Here

H. R. Smith, manager of the Crystal Theatre, is securing motion pictures of Antioch and of Libertyville game. The films are to include also views of Antioch and of Libertyville scenes and will be shown at the local theatre next week. This is an exceptional honor for the local team as the films will be made and brought to Antioch at a heavy expense to the theatre and the local pluckin artists will make every effort to make the moving pictures a record of victory.

NEWS NOTES OF NEARBY TOWNS

McHenry Fire Department Purchases a New 70 H. P. Truck.

The McHenry fire department has just purchased a new 70 horse power fire truck to take the place of the one destroyed last summer in an accident. The truck is equipped with a 500-gallon pump and with booster tanks. The engine is a 70 horse power Continental motor with dual ignition. The new outfit was purchased at a price of $6,500 with $1500 being allowed in trade for the old fire truck.

Property loss of $2,300 was sustained by John W. Phalen, owner of the Phalen drug store business block at Harvard in a fire outbreak. The fire had its origin on the third floor which the American Legion uses for lodge and club rooms.

Mrs. Albert Glickley, a resident of Crystal Lake, caught one of the largest bass ever caught in that lake last week. The fish weighed five pounds and three ounces.

Charles S. Sumner, mayor of Delavan, Wis., world war veteran and member of the Walworth county bar, succumbed to a brief illness at his home Sunday night, Oct. 23. The afternoon previous he was stricken by paralysis while attending a football game in his home city. Thereafter he remained in a state of coma until the end came.

The dredging of the channel across Round Lake Beach subdivision was started a few days ago and the work is progressing very rapidly. More than 1,000 lineal feet have been completed to date. In order to hasten the work a second dredge will be started at once. Both dredges are operating 24 hours each day in order to complete the contract by Dec. first. More than thirty thousand cubic yards of dirt are to be removed and spread along the banks of the cut.

Odo Poeschel, of Lake Forest, accused of the murder of Wilma Miller, also of Lake Forest, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment last week.

POULTRY EXHIBITION AND GREAT THREE-DAY BARGAIN FESTIVAL BEGINS IN ANTIOCH TODAY

Unrivalled Values Await Buyers During These Big Sale Days

Everything is set and the big three day bargain sales put on by Antioch merchants started off with a bang this morning. Provident buyers will purchase today, tomorrow, and Saturday in the shops and stores of Antioch for $1.00 many items that cost the merchant two and even three times that amount wholesale. In some instances the purchaser will find that the merchant is offering a substantial reduction on the entire stock; and the enterprising shopper who makes Antioch stores his headquarters for these three days will find here bargains that cannot be excelled anywhere.

This is Goodwill Week. And Antioch merchants are putting on these big sales not as a money making venture but as a reminder to the people in Antioch's trade radius that Antioch is a good place to trade. These bargains are an invitation to all prospective customers to come into the stores and see for themselves the splendid displays of fall and winter goods offered by the merchants.

One local citizen has provided his better half with $25.00 to spend with Antioch merchants on these days; and another, anxious to take advantage of the many bargains, has contributed $50.00 to the family budget for the same purpose. One enterprising lady was heard to state that she had made out her entire Christmas shopping list and intended to have her purchasing completed by Saturday night.

Many inquiries and telephone calls have come to the merchants daily from enterprising shoppers who wanted to know at what time the stores would open up so that they could be there early each day in order to be sure not to miss any of the bargains offered.

Saturday will be a big day of course, and one that no-one should miss. Besides the many attractions offered by the stores and the poultry show on that day, the merchants have engaged a band to give a concert in the afternoon.

American Legion Notes (By the American Legion.)

In view of the possibility of obtaining the Great Lakes Fleet for mobilization off Waukegan during the Convention, the dates of 27 and 28 August, 1928, were selected as the convention dates. Every effort is going to be made to have the Navy Fleet mobilize at Waukegan, to hold open-house during the convention, to participate in the street parade, and undoubtedly, this attraction will bring many more visitors to Waukegan than what it has ever seen before.

The sum of $10,000.00 was appropriated to be spent for service work at the hospitals at North Chicago, Jacksonville and Elgin, this money to be spent for food, where necessary, cigarettes, tobacco, recreational facilities, etc. However, this sum is only part of the amount actually needed and donations of these items may be sent in as heretofore.

Fourth Annual Display Of Feathered Tribe Is Best Ever

What promises to be the greatest poultry exhibition in the history of the community commences today at the Antioch High School gymnasium where the Antioch-Lake Villa Poultry Association is staging its fourth annual display of the feathered tribe. The exhibition, which starts this morning, will be open all day and evenings for three days, and the public is invited to view, free of charge, the biggest and best display of chickens, ducks, geese, and other fowls that the association has ever assembled.

Many new exhibitors have entered this year and the secretary of the organization, C. L. Kull, states that the entries this year have exceeded those of previous years in number and variety and that exhibits are being brought from more distant points than ever before.

Not only is the show itself of interest to everyone but there will be many displays by local merchants. The Studebaker and Chevrolet agencies will both exhibit their latest designs in cars, H. R. Adams and Company will have a home builders' display, and the Soo Line Railroad Company will have their famous Out Door Life exhibit here.

The judging of the entries is to be done by Roy Waterman of Barrington. He will start his work on Friday morning and the most of the ribbons will be in place Friday evening although it is anticipated that the unusually large number of entries, together with the excellence of the birds to be displayed and the variety of fowls listed will make the judging a particularly arduous task this year.

Much interest prevails over the pullet sale that is to be held on Saturday at 1 p. m. Col. Slocum will act as auctioneer. Some of the pullets will undoubtedly go at real bargain prices and everyone who is interested will find it worth while to be on hand.

The Woman's club of Antioch will serve lunches in the High School dining room, so it will be possible for all to come and spend the entire day.

A dressed poultry sale will be held on Saturday evening about 8:30, and will enable all to come and get a chicken for the Sunday dinner.

Officers, members and friends of the association have bent every effort to make this the most successful show ever staged by the organization and have been supported very generously by the merchants of the community. There is no doubt that this will be the largest exhibition of its kind ever put on in the region.

EXCHANGES

The case of William Shumacher, self-confessed patricide, received preliminary hearing in Judge Shurtliff's court at McHenry last week. On advice of counsel, appointed by Judge Shurtliff, the defendant waived examination, and the grand jury brought in a charge of manslaughter. Trial is set for November 14th. Conviction for manslaughter involves a penalty of from one to fourteen years. Shumacher recently confessed to the shooting of his father on October the 20th, giving as his reason for the act the fact that the elder Shumacher had for years subjected his wife and family to abuse.

The sand sucker at Crystal Lake, in which Berthold Bondy attempted to secure an injunction restraining Dr. M. W. Samuels from using the sucker to take earth from the bottom of the lake to build up his shore line, has been settled. In a decision by Judge C. C. Edwards, Dr. Samuels was allowed to continue the use of the machine. The case, however, was carried to the Illinois supreme court by Bondy, and that body reversed Judge Edwards' decision.

COW AUCTION SALE

The Auction Sales Company will sell at public auction on Saturday, November 12th the property of Tony Yucus. The farm is located three fourths of a mile west of Gurnee, Ill., and one fourth mile north on the Fuller road. The sale will commence at 12 o'clock and will include 18 cows, 4 horses, 10 hogs, poultry, a quantity of grain and hay and of farm machinery.

EXCHANGES

Titus Brothers of Libertyville were awarded the contract last week for the installation of a new ornamental lighting system to be placed on three streets in that place at a cost of $13,781.00.

Herman Kamholz, superintendent of the golf grounds of the Cary Country club, recently had his right leg broken in two places when he was caught in a tractor. He had stopped the machine and was about to attach a drag, when the clutch slipped into gear and the tractor started to back up and the man was caught beneath the machine.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—From the comfortable financial situation to which he had been born, Peter Milman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to penury through the misfortune of a friend, Haxen Brower, whom he had naively trusted.

CHAPTER II.—Learning of Brower's suicide, which means the destruction of his last hope, Milman engages a French butler, Achille Lutry, who speaks no English, and is to replace Brower, secretary of long standing. By Lutry, Milman sends letters to Prof. Fleming Bradley, Floyd Malet, and Neeland Barnes, men whom the world has classed as failures, once of high position. In response, the three call on him at his home.

CHAPTER III.—After an excellent dinner Milman upbraids his guests into his Japanese garden, where, after each has related the circumstances which wrecked their careers, he convinces them their misfortunes are directly traceable to the machinations of an unseen, unscrupulous enemy, a man who had risen to high financial position and political power by underhand methods, chiefly blackmail, Paul Haxon. Haxon also ruined Brower, and incidentally Milman.

CHAPTER IV.—Milman explains to his guests how, chiefly through his belief in Floyd Malet as a great sculptor and the victim of malevolent circumstances, he had subscribed to a press-clipping bureau and kept a detective on Haxon's track, learning much to Haxon's discredit, though nothing by which he could be reached legally. Himself impoverished through Haxon's financial crookedness, Milman proposes an association of the four men—an association outside the law—which shall pull down Haxon and force him to disgorge his ill-gotten financial gains.

CHAPTER V.—Following Milman's disclosure, his three guests, after a consultation, practically decide to join him in the fight against Paul Haxon. Milman explains his ideas, admitting he has no real plan to bring about Haxon's downfall, except discredit, details about his personal and business life which he has gleaned from Herman Lodon, Haxon's tool on occasions when wife has loosened Lodon's tongue.

CHAPTER VI.—Haxon's political ambition is the national senate seat from his state. McKimber is the admitted party nominee, and must be eliminated. At his palatial residence, Great Hook, Haxon plans elaborate entertainments in his official interest. Returning to his humble abode, Neeland Barnes finds his daughter, Anita, who had been living with relatives in England. Having no fit home for the girl, Barnes takes her to Milman's, where she is welcomed as a guest. Overhearing the plans of the "conspirators," Anita arranges to join them, assuring them of her confidence she can be of use.

CHAPTER VII.—Mrs. Haxon, aware of her shortcomings as a society hostess, falls in with her husband's idea of hiring a well-bred woman and giving her full charge of the household. She engages a "Miss Agatha Brown" (really Miss Anita Barnes) to take charge. The girl arranges for the employment of her father and Professor Bradley as footmen in the Haxon household and the "association" awaits developments.

CHAPTER VIII.—Haxon's daughters, personally unattractive, are at once jealous of Anita. Since Milman's former butler, is engaged for the same position by Haxon. With their son, Robin, Mr. and Mrs. McKimber are guests of the Haxons. Robin at once falls in love with Anita and proposes marriage. The girl refuses him, aware that his father would oppose his son's marriage to a penniless, unknown girl. Neeland Barnes and Bradley arrange a hiding place from which to spy on Haxon in his "den."

CHAPTER IX.—In an interview with McKimber Haxon discloses his knowledge of an incident in the former's life, the publication of which would disaster him politically and socially, and exhibits proof, demanding that McKimber withdraw from the political race in his favor, as the price of secrecy. McKimber, though innocent of crime, or even deeply involved in the former's life, is overwhelmed by the apparent proof Haxon takes down the conversation in shorthand but is valiantly deceived when she joins her fellow conspirators.

"The first thing to tell you," Haxon began, "is I am going to Washington. You will quit in my favor and lend me all your great influence. Naturally you must have an excuse which seems a true one. I have it all ready prepared. You are too heavy even for your height, and the pouches under your eyes are unduly signs. You had better drop out, because your specialist tells you there is heart and kidney trouble. I shall refer to the fact in my speeches with great regret."

McKimber spoke with deliberation. "They told me you were dangerous, and I know you are a traitor to your party, but not until this moment did I believe you were absolutely crazy. They call your sort of madness megalomania." McKimber rose to his feet. "I've met all sorts of knives and fools in politics, but you're the worst yet."

"What a senator you would have made!" Haxon commented. "Do you suppose I should have talked like this if I had not been certain you were harmless, a rattle with his poison snes extracted? My success has come mainly because I understand human motivation. I'm going to show you how it is that when you leave here it will be to start a Haxon boom in your own city. Sit down, McKimber."

John McKimber, who prided himself upon taking orders from none, dropped again into his seat. It seemed to him he was talking to a Haxon he had not until now understood. He found himself noticing what a cruel mouth the other had, and how in those brown eyes were little flecks of red. Paul Haxon gazed at him as an executioner might stare at a prisoner delivered to him for death. McKimber knew that he had been holding too cheaply one who had a dynamic and evil personality.

"If I stay," he said huskily, "it will be to hear you give away more secrets about yourself. Perhaps I shall learn by what trickery you got this place, and how it was you sent Haxon Brewer to his grave."

"I got this place," said Haxon with his old urbanity, "as I have got everything else in my life, by using men as tools. I studied men and found them glib, nosy, and vain. It was hard to influence them by my subliminal personality, even though I had the right on my side. I do not mix well. I knew that had to be overcome. In other words, I determined to develop something to make up for it. My success has come from finding, almost unerringly, the weak spot in every man's make-up. I got my chance at International Motors by finding out so much of Brower's life in London that he was forced to take me in to protect himself."

"You're a d-d blackmutter," McKimber cried hoarsely.

"I am," Haxon agreed. "The phrase does not offend me in the least. Why should it? Is there any more powerful word? Most traitors in the great war were forced into espionage because the enemy threatened exposure as the price of refusal. In the drawer before me are two articles. One is an automatic pistol. Haxon opened the drawer and put the weapon on the writing table at which he sat. "I am not going to threaten you with it. That is old-fashioned, stupid stuff. I am merely reminding you I have it at hand if you should attack me."

There was undisguised amazement in the bigger man's voice.

"Attack you? What for?"

"Because exhibit 'B' will cause you considerable distress, and I have known men of your type to see red in such moments." Haxon unfolded a square envelope in his thin hands.

"If it's blackmail you are thinking of in connection with me," said McKimber scornfully, "you are wasting time. It's you who are using old-fashioned stupid stuff, not me. I tell you, my life is an open book."

"With one uncut page," Haxon remarked. "I've cut that page. It cost time and money, but it was the best investment I ever made. Think back a bit over this life of yours that is an open book. Is there anything in it that might hurt you if it got out?"

"Not a thing," cried McKimber defiantly. But there was lurking that ring of confidence he had previously shown. Fear was mastering him. There was no madness about this steady-eyed man opposite.

"Very well," said Haxon briskly.

"You force me to speak. You talk of yourself as a self-made man who rose from being a machinist to the ownership of a vast organization. That's true. In Who's Who it's written for all the world to see. But there are certain omissions. I can supply them. That's why you are here, McKimber, to listen to the writing between the lines. When you were twenty you left Utica for St. Louis and got a job in the Davis foundry. There you studied drafting, and three years later, having made good, entered the employ of William Graham, Mrs. McKimber's uncle, who owned the Rochester Steel and Iron mills. Later you married his niece."

"Well," said McKimber, his throat constricting, "what about it?"

"Your employer singled her out of all his relatives and left his fortune to her on condition she married you. He had confidence in you. He had read the open book and liked the contents. If he had had access to that uncut page, he would have known that your first wife was still living."

"I divorced her," McKimber cried.

"I can prove it."

"The decree was not made absolute until three months after you married your employer's niece. It's a nice legal point, and I've no doubt his other nephews and nieces would be quite ready to fight it. If the condition of getting the fortune was your marriage to Graham's niece, you did not fulfill it, because you did not marry her. A bigamous union is not marriage in the eyes of the law. You must have known that, or you wouldn't have gone through a second ceremony. The first marriage was by a Justice of the peace. The second was at a New York church. You obtained Graham's fortune under false pretenses, and you were a bigamist. It's no good denying it."

"It was all done innocently," McKimber protested. "As God is my witness, I thought I was free to marry. In the divorce suit there was nothing that reflected on me personally."

"What has that to do with it?" Haxon asked cynically. "It may be that you thought you were free to marry. But that makes no difference. The world won't think that. Westfield won't think that. Nor will the big papers that are supporting him. You're through, McKimber, that's all. You'll never hold public office again if this gets out. That's not all. You are going to help me into the senate, and your friends are going to help. If your friends try and knife me, you are the one who will bleed."

McKimber sat motionless. Haxon cared nothing about his innocence, guilty or innocent, McKimber was the loser. He turned dull eyes toward the envelope Haxon held up.

"In this is the entry of your first marriage. Someone cut a page out of the register and offered it to me for sale. I bought it. There are also some letters you wrote to your first wife when you found she was a secret drinker. Her son by a second marriage sold them to my agent. Pathetic letters in their way, but you know how the modern yellow newspaper laughs at pathetic things, especially when they affect political opponents. I hope the need for publication may never come. Some day they may be yours."

"What do you want for that envelope, if it contains what you say?"

"You'll never have half enough money to buy it. Why do you persist in underestimating me? Realize here and now that you are beaten. You will never go to the senate. If I don't go, then Westfield wins, and you will be the traitor to your party. No further discussion is necessary. What is it to be? Absolute obedience, or do these things go to Westfield?"

McKimber's head dropped. There was a consciousness of physical feebleness about him, a devitalization which he had never before experienced. It was curious, he reflected, that the sense of anger had left him. It was the measure of his defeat.

"I can't talk now. Tomorrow my brain will be clearer." Evidently he rose to his feet and walked to the door.

Paul Haxon watched him go out, a broken man. Oriental in his absence of pity, he enjoyed humiliating one of McKimber's domineering sort. To bring low such gave him an increased sense of power. He disliked big, arrogant men with loud voices and assured gestures.

Haxon was aroused from his pleasant reflections by a noise on the door. It was Alfred, the dark footman, who entered and told him that he was wanted on the long-distance telephone. Haxon shut the precious envelope in his wall-safe and passed out, not even glancing at the man who stood respectfully at the door.

When Fleming Bradley was assured that Haxon had gone, he hurried back into the room. Then he did a curious thing. He knelt down by one of the hookcases and pried back a board with a screw-driver. Then he peered into the darkness where he had recently been mistaken for a rat. Bradley reached into this space and pulled out Nita, head first.

She wore riding breeches and golf stockings, and at first could hardly stand upright. The constraint of the position had become torture. In Nita's hands was a notebook, several pencils, and a flashlight. Every word which had passed was taken down. It was her task now to go to her room and transcribe it for Peter Milman's benefit.

It was not until the two had passed the danger zone that they spoke. "Well," Bradley demanded, "did you get anything?"

"I got everything," she answered. He wondered why there was no exultation in her voice.

Bradley resumed his duties, which consisted mainly in handing refreshments to thirsty dancers. For a little while he stood by Barnes.

PAROLE BOARD WILL RELEASE MANY TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

Illinois' Delegation Carries Flood Control Demand To Congress.

In order to alleviate crowded conditions in Illinois penal institutions, the state parole board is being forced to adopt a more lenient attitude toward convicts, especially those serving terms for minor offenses. Lawrence Benson and Harry Jensen, members of the board sitting at Joliet have heard applications for paroles of 150 prisoners in the old prison. They declared recently that it is the intention of the board to parole some of the inmates convicted of minor offenses and who have served the minimum term for the offenses. The records show that there are 3,062 prisoners in the two institutions at Joliet. The state parole board, which consists of ten members, has Hinton G. Clabaugh, Chicago, as its head.

A busy but smiling Stork presided over 87,619 birth ceremonies while the Grim Reaper had charge of affairs over only 55,259 instances for the first eight months of this year in Illinois, according to a statement just issued by Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director. These figures give a death rate of 11.3 per cent and a birth rate of 17.8 per cent per one thousand population. However, both the birth and death rates were lower than they had been for a number of years. The increase of births over deaths increased the density of population by almost one per square mile of land area.

The state department of public works and division of highways recently took under consideration bids for the construction of several stretches of hard roads, bridges and grading sections in various parts of the state. A large number of contractors submitted bids.

The Hurd Construction company apparently submitted the lowest bid on the construction of a .21 mile stretch of road in Kendall county.

The apparent low bidders on pavement follow: Route 1, section 10W, Will county, 2.55 miles, Shilder Construction company, Kankakee, $63,807.89.

Route 14, section 11, White county, 4.26 miles, French Construction company, Fairfield, $77,536.56; Route 14, section 12, White county, 4.50 miles, French Construction company, Fairfield, $84,725.40; Combination bid, J. I. Ransom, Palestine, $153,000.

Route 72, section 12S, DeKalb-Kane counties, 5.59 miles, Trompeter and Sons, Peru, $10,788.70.

Route 116, section 11S, Livingston county, 15 miles, combination bid, dianna Rad Paving company, Rochester, Ind., $287,917.

Governor Len Small has been made an honorary chief of the Black-foot Indians. Thirty-two members of the tribe stopped in the Capitol City recently enroute to their reservation in northwestern Montana, after having visited the centennial exposition of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Baltimore. It is not the first time that the honor of chieftain has been conferred upon the governor, as he was given the feathered headdress last year by a party of Indians who accompanied the 101 Ranch Wild West show to Springfield.

The state division of highways let the contract recently for the grading of a stretch of forty-foot pavement in Kane and Cook counties to the Burch Construction company, Madison, Wisconsin, for $101,994.72. The work is to be done on Route 63.

Other contracts awarded were: Route 142A, section 101A, Wayne county, grading; Klog and Sheehan, Dudley, Illinois, $50,699.56. The contract for a bridge on the same route was awarded to the Zimmerly Bridge Company, Paris, for $17,615.

Route 25, section 7V, Clay county, bridge; to J. P. Lynch, Robinson, $23,736.06.

A bronze tablet containing Lincoln's Gettysburg address, at the south door of the Sangamon county court house, was formally dedicated recently by the Women's Relief Corps assisted by the Capitol City Post.

Confidence that the Chicago city council would soon be in position to appeal to Governor Len Small to call a special session of the legislature to untangle Chicago's chaotic traction system was expressed in a statement recently to the press by James W. Breen, first assistant corporation counsel. The bills proposed for submission to a special session of the legislature would provide:

For construction of a subway;
For consolidation of railroad corporations and street railways to operate as one line;
For creation of a transit commission covering all of Cook county;

For terminable permits or franchises, granting power to the city to contract with the corporations which operate street cars, fix causes for termination of contracts, and permit the city to purchase at any time;

For amendment of the city charter to permit application of the first four proposed measures.

Illinois two-cent gasoline law, which is bringing a monthly revenue of approximately $1,000,000, to the state, will be under legal fire at the December term of the state supreme court. The issues have been made up by the attorneys for the Chicago Motor Club, which is testing the validity of the law. The attorneys for the club contend that the act is unconstitutional because it places the burden on gasoline-propelled cars, while vehicles propelled by kerosene and electricity escape the tax. They declare also that the act is invalid because no provision is made for the taxing of gasoline (some millions of gallons) stored in the state prior to the time the act became effective.

A large number of congressmen, members of the legislature, residents of the various cities in the Illinois river valley, together with members of the drainage boards, accompanied Governor Small to Washington the first part of the month to urge federal relief for flood conditions in the Mississippi and Illinois river valleys. The party from the Capitol City was headed by Mayor William Hale Thompson. The Illinois delegation appeared before the congressional committee of which Congressman Frank Reid, Aurora, is chairman.

A new publication, "Forest Trees of Illinois," just issued by the state department of forest conservation, has become so popular that the book has gone into its second printing. The pamphlet was prepared by State Forester R. B. Miller and W. R. Mattoon. Requests for the booklet have been received from extension and state foresters of ten states, complimenting the state on issuance of such a bulletin and stating they desired to publish a similar book in their states. Most requests for the booklet are coming from state teachers to be used in botany courses. The University of Illinois is using them for both class and laboratory work.

Dr. J. P. Kerr of Versailles was re-elected to his fifth term as president of the Illinois Association of Drainage and Levee districts at the annual meeting of the organization in the Capitol City recently. He represented the drainage men of the Illinois Valley at the flood control conference in Washington; he accompanied Governor Small's delegation of state officials.

The American First Foundation, founded by Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago has been granted a charter by Secretary of State Emmerson. The object of the organization is to teach the fundamental principles of the government and to place in all homes "the priceless document of our constitution." The incorporators are Mayor Thompson, Henry Paschen, John J. Murphy, Christian Paschen and Linus Long.

Dr. E. H. Cooley, Danville, was elected president of the Illinois Tuberculosis Association at their annual convention in Rockford recently. He succeeded Dr. J. P. Denby, of Carlinville, who has headed the association for the past two years. Other officers elected are: Dr. H. N. Heflin, Kewanee; Dr. E. S. Murphy, Dixon; Mrs. R. A. Carlie, Anna; Dr. Ima H. Rice, Aurora.

The state commerce commission has received a joint application from the Illinois Southern Telephone company and the Perry County Telephone company for an order authorizing the sale of the Perry company's properties in Pinckneyville, Cutler and vicinity to the Illinois Southern company. The latter concern also asked for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate the properties.

Governor Len Small issued his annual Armistice day proclamation recently. The proclamation read in part as follows:

"November 11, marks the passing of the ninth year since the signing of the armistice was flashed around the world. And to the end that the great event, so largely due to the patriotism and valor of our people, shall not be lightly regarded and eventually forgotten, the congress of the United States as well as the general assembly of Illinois have enacted legislation providing that the anniversary of the armistice be observed as a holiday to afford opportunity for our citizens fitly to celebrate the victory of the allied armies in the World War."

Heavy Food Loss

Fifteen to twenty per cent of the food crops of the world are lost through insect and fungoid attacks, such as mildew and mold.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN NEIGHBORHOOD

North Shore Line To Extend Bus Service To Lake Zurich.

A certificate of operation permitting the operation of a bus line between Highland Park, Highland, and Lake Zurich was recently granted to the North Shore Line.

The Walworth County Holstein Breeders' Association, an organization which has held semi-annual Holstein sales for many years, this year instructed its secretary to advertise only in weekly papers as it had been found that money expended in this way brought the most inquiries from buyers for catalogs.

The will of the late John J. Mitchell bequeathed $10,000,000 to his three sons and two daughters besides minor bequests to personal employees. Mrs. Mitchell left $2,000,000 which included the Mitchell residence at Pasadena, valued at $200,000. Ceylon Court at Lake Geneva valued at $500,000 and a cooperative apartment house in Chicago, besides more than a million in cash securities.

The Isaac Walton League of the region of the Kishwaukee river, under the leadership of the DeKalb chapter of the league and of the DeKalb Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, and Kiwanis clubs, have started a movement to eradicate dangerous pollution from the stream. It was pointed out by the president of the DeKalb chapter of the league that the Kishwaukee Country club, State Teachers' College, State Tubercular Sanitarium and the boys' and girls' camps fostered by the Rotary club, besides innumerable camps and farms along the river suffer from the pollution.

A Chevrolet roadster was found upside down in the Mill Pond at Burlington one morning last week. When it had been hoisted from its resting place it was found that the car was one which had been stolen from Vincent Kohn of Lake Geneva. Apparently the thief, no longer desiring to use the car, had headed it toward the embankment and let it go.
